Black barbershops are havens for hot topics

Philadelphia. Civil discourse still has a place in neighborhood barbershops.

Lee Johnson gives Genaro Garcia a haircut at Shear Excellence Barber & Beauty Shop on Fairmount Avenue near Eastern State Penitentiary. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER, METRO

When rapper Killer Mike popped up on CNN after the shooting of Michael Brown in Ferguson, Missouri, he wasn't preaching a gospel of negativity or hyping an album.

"Killer" Mike Bender spoke about his right to be safe when unarmed. He also discussed the struggles of policemen (his dad is a cop) and added to this dialogue something essential — how he owned a barbershop in Atlanta, the Swag Shop, and how it was a flashpoint for calm, but seriously charged debate for this case, and all matters of civil discourse.

With that, Bender reminded people about the role of the barbershop within black communities — as well as being the best spot for a little off-the-top, and the proper fade.

Locally, Philadelphia's black communities have their own highly regarded meeting spots — old-school traditionalists like Fred's Heads on Philly's Northwest side and newer spots like South Philly's Chalklines from the Neck Up.

There's Mike Monroe's eight-year-young ESPM Hair Zone in West Philly and Lee Johnson's five-year-old Shear Excellence Barber & Beauty Shop — all places where civil conversation comes with a trim.

"I think people feel very comfortable in a barbershop talking about the day's issues," said Johnson, 39, of his Art Museum-area shop and its clientele.

Aaron Moore, a 36-year Wynnefield native has been going to Johnson's various shops since he was a kid. He knows well what to expect when he gets to the barbershop. "We can talk about anything there." Ferguson is a matter of importance as Moore, a big guy, has been stopped by police for no reason. "But you have to know how to handle yourself." The Ray Rice scandal? "Never hit a woman. Then again, you should stay away from the volatile ones. Not everybody at the shop agrees with me."

Moore says that nearly every customer knows the other, that each man has his own background, and that this barbershop — along with other establishments Johnson has run — is a good environment for social discourse. "Me? I like talking about priorities, what a man should and shouldn't be doing. I think I might be the voice of reason there."

Chair chatter

'Stay civil'

Johnson said customers have been expressing Ferguson views. "I have to make sure things don't go too far and that people stay civil."

The Ray Rice issue didn't hit his chairs yet, but Brown's laying still has his customers torn. "We talk about how we know that there isn't enough evidence to make a full assessment of the situation, but everybody here feels the same way about how the kid got killed without a weapon in his hands."

Visit Metro.us for more issues the men of these shops chat about.

Sale. McCoy's 20-cent tip receipt on eBay

The most famous piece of paper signed in Philadelphia after the Declaration of Independence is now up on eBay. And it's not cheap.

Someone put LeSean McCoy's talked-about 20-cent tip receipt from Northern Liberties' burger joint PYT on eBay, and early on Monday, bids were up around $900.

By press time on Monday however, bids up just under $100,000 with four days left to go in the auction. Someone is pulling our legs, right?

Whatever the case, TipGate isn't dying any time soon it seems. PYT owner Tommy Up is still fielding emails; he posted on Sunday that he had more than 88,000. Perhaps one is confirming a $100K eBay bid. CHRISTINA PACIOLLA

Large police district to get more cops

The 15th District, which covers a large swath of Northeast Philadelphia, will get 30 new full-time police officers.

A petition had recently circulated the neighborhoods to split the 15th District.

Community leaders complained that a police presence was more concentrated in violent areas like Frankford than in nearby neighborhoods where break-ins and thefts were more common.

Instead, the police department is sending 30 new cops to the district, reports say, to address the district's size. METRO

Pregnant mom, baby murdered, police say

Frankford. Police ask that anyone with information call 215-686-3334.

The death of a pregnant Frankford woman and her baby girl has been ruled a double murder, police said.

And police are offering a $40,000 reward — $20,000 for each of the deceased — for the arrest and conviction of the killer.

"It's very tragic," said Homicide Capt. Jamea Clark, "a 25-year-old woman in the prime of her life shot and killed."

On Sunday morning, Megan Doto, 25, who was eight months pregnant, was sitting in a chair on her front porch on the 1500 block of Adams Avenue, watching a neighbor's child, police said.

Megan Doto, 25, was eight months pregnant. / FACEBOOK

Megan the mother

Doto was due on Oct. 15, according to her Facebook page.

- She thought her soon-to-be-born baby was a boy. She planned to name the baby Carmine Joseph, according to her Facebook page.
- She was also the mother of a 6-year-old and a 4-year-old.

At 10:45 a.m., an unknown gunman fired at least 10 rounds at a four-door, white vehicle at the top of the block. One of the bullets drifted toward the woman's front porch and caught her in the face. Clark said Doto was not involved in the altercation, nor was her boyfriend.

She was rushed to Temple University Hospital where she was pronounced dead. Doctors performed an emergency C-section, and successfully delivered the baby at 12:30 a.m. "As a result of the trauma, which occurred to the mother's body, the baby was pronounced dead at 1:13 a.m.," Clark said. "It was a girl."

NE Philly. Woman gets house arrest for boyfriend's slaying

Shawn Rodgers / PROVIDED

Porche Holloway, 27, was sentenced Monday to up to 23 months, to be served on house arrest, on involuntary manslaughter charges for fatally stabbing her former boyfriend during a fight.

Victim Shawn Rodgers, 30, died on Oct. 21, 2012, after Holloway stabbed him with a kitchen knife inside the Lawncrest home Rodgers had recently moved out of due to ongoing disputes between the two.

"I would like to apologize to his mother, his father, his kids and my daughter. And I'm sorry," Holloway said before sentencing.

Rodgers' mother was overcome with grief after the sentence was announced, sobbing loudly in the hallway and crying, "I can't live! I can't live!"

"My brother won't be coming back. And she's out," said Richina Pickron, 36, Rodgers' sister. "Justice wasn't served today."

Pickron disputed the defense argument that her brother attacked Holloway.

"They tried to make him out to be some complete monster," she said. "She didn't have any bruises on her. Shawn was 6'1" ... if he was abusing her, she would have bruises." SAM NEWHOUSE

Police investigate complaint from 'Django' actress

Handcuffs. Police detained Daniele Watts, but she was released after they said she had not broken any laws.

The Los Angeles Police Department is investigating after "Django Unchained" actress Daniele Watts accused officers of violating her rights when they handcuffed and detained her while responding to a report of indecent exposure.

In a statement released over the weekend, Los Angeles police said its officers had responded to a report from a passerby that a couple were indecently exposed inside a silver Mercedes on Thursday.

Watts posted this picture of her crying next to an officer with her hands behind her back. / FACEBOOK

On Twitter

- "Actress detained after being mistaken for a prostitute...Oh, and because she's BLACK. Sometimes I just can't... smdh"
  DERIC A. HUGHES @DBLACKANESE

The officers detained Watts, who is black, and her boyfriend, who is white, but determined the two had not broken any laws and released them.

Watts' boyfriend, Los Angeles chef Brian James Lucas, wrote on his Facebook page on Friday that the police had thought she was a prostitute because of the couple's attire and their differing skin colors.

TMZ on Monday posted audio from the incident, where Watts declines to give the officer her ID and says, "Do you know how many times ... the cops have been called just for being black, because we're black against white?"

The cop then responds, "Who brought up the race card? Why?" REUTERS

GM to offer compensation for deaths

General Motors Co. will pay compensation for 19 deaths linked to a faulty ignition switch, according to the lawyer overseeing the compensation process, more than the 13 deaths the automaker had previously admitted were caused by the now-recalled part.

Two Apple medical trials shed light on how HealthKit will work

Technology. HealthKit, still under development, is the center of a new health care system by Apple.

Apple aims eventually to work with health care providers across the United States. / GETTY IMAGES

Two prominent U.S. hospitals are preparing to launch trials with diabetics and chronic disease patients using Apple Inc.'s HealthKit, offering a glimpse of how the iPhone maker's ambitious take on health care will work in practice.

Regulated medical devices, such as glucose monitors with accompanying iPhone apps, can send information to HealthKit. With a patient's consent, Apple's service gathers data from various health apps so that it can be viewed by doctors in one place.

Stanford University Hospital doctors said they are working with Apple to let physicians track blood sugar levels for children with diabetes. Duke University is developing a pilot to track blood pressure and weight for patients with cancer or heart disease.

The goal is to improve the accuracy and speed of reporting data, which often is done by phone and fax now. Potentially, doctors would be able to warn patients of an impending problem.

Reuters previously reported that Apple is in talks with other U.S. hospitals. Stanford Children's Chief Medical Information Officer Christopher Longhurst told Reuters that Stanford and Duke were among the furthest along.

Apple last week mentioned the trials in a news release announcing the latest version of its operating system for phones and tablets, iOS 8, but this is the first time any details have been made public. REUTERS

Longhurst said that in the first Stanford University trial, young patients with Type 1 diabetes will be sent home with an iPod touch to monitor blood sugar levels between doctor's visits.

Pre-orders hit 4 million

Apple Inc. said many customers will need to wait until next month for their new iPhones after a record 4 million first-day pre-orders were logged, double the number for the iPhone.

DC wins support for Iraq campaign

World powers backed military measures on Monday to help defeat Islamic State fighters in Iraq, boosting Washington's efforts to set up a coalition, but made no mention of the tougher diplomatic challenge next door in Syria. France sent fighter jets on a reconnaissance mission over Iraq, a step closer to becoming the first ally to join the United States in new bombing there since Paris also hosted an international conference, attended by the five U.N. Security Council permanent members, and European and Arab states. All pledged to help the government in Baghdad fight against Islamic State militants. Bright meteor. Fireball lights up the night sky over eastern states

A blazing meteor lit up the night sky like fireworks across a dozen eastern states and prompted almost 160 sighting reports, the American Meteor Society said on Monday.

The meteor entered the Earth's atmosphere over central Pennsylvania late on Sunday and wowed observers from Virginia to Massachusetts in a "random fireball event," society spokesman Mike Hankey said.

Most of those who reported the fireball on the American Meteor Society website said it began as a brilliant white color and then turned yellow, green and orange. REUTERS

Urban Outfitters in hot water over 'bloody red' sweatshirt

Urban Outfitters merchandise has been described as sexy, hip, stylish, kitschy and bizarre. / BILLY BECERRA / METRO

Blood. The company said the red stains are discoloration from the original shade of the shirt.

An Urban Outfitters sweatshirt that looks like it is spattered with blood and which bears the name of an Ohio university where four students were killed in 1970 during a peaceful protest was yanked from the clothing store's website after it went viral on Monday.

Urban Outfitters, which has its corporate offices in Philadelphia, posted a statement denying that the shirt is meant to look like a bloody relic. "It was never our intention to allude to the tragic events that took place at Kent State in 1970 and we are extremely saddened that this item was perceived as such," Urban Outfitters said on Twitter. "The one-of-a-kind item was purchased as part of our sun-faded vintage collection. There is no blood on this shirt nor has this item been altered in any way.

Only four other similar vintage sweatshirts are on Urban Outfitters' website — for Bates College, Cathedral College, University of Texas and New Mexico University. All are in solid colors.

The University of Texas was also the site of a famed mass murder when a gunman killed 16 people and wounded 32 others from the bell tower at the center of campus in Austin, Texas, in 1966.

Nothing in that shirt's design alludes to the tragedy in Austin.

Keep yourself safe from identity theft

Education tips. Becky Frost, the senior education manager for Experian's ProtectMyID shares her best financial protection advice.

Always look for the security lock symbol before entering any personal information online or when online shopping.

THINKSTOCK, WAVEBREAK MEDIA

According to the Federal Trade Commission, young adults make up the largest percentage of identity theft victims in the U.S. "Many college students have clean credit, making them preferred targets," senior education manager for Experian's ProtectMyID Becky Frost says. "College students have to be aware of identity-theft risks and protect themselves on multiple fronts. Students should keep key documents, such as a social security cards, secure. They should also avoid sharing credit card information with friends, and review all credit reports regularly."

We talked to Frost about what young adults can do to secure their funds and identities. Here's what she told us:

• "Always keep your dorm room or apartment door locked, even when you're home. Most identity theft still occurs in mundane, non-technical ways, like a wallet being stolen from a drawer or a purse taken from an unlocked room."

• "Be careful with documents that contain personal information. Shred bills, and keep credit card and bank account statements stored in a safe, locked location."

• "Leave your social security card and birth certificate at home, with your parents. You'll need your SSN constantly in college, so you should have the number memorized. Be careful about how you use it and who you give it to; they should have a legitimate need for it. Only carry with you the ID that you actually need, like your driver's license and student ID card. Never loan those items to a friend, no matter how close you think you are."

• "Be wary about who you allow in your room. Remember, anyone who enters your living space could gain access to your personal information."

• "When making online purchases, only use websites that have the security lock symbol."

• "Never complete a credit card application at a table or booth on campus. Instead, go through the credit card company's secure website or contact your bank before you go to school."

• "Monitor your credit report regularly. Not only will regular monitoring help you identify possible occurrences of identity theft, it can help you better understand how the financial decisions you make affect your credit score."

Online resource

Use experts

"Consider enrolling in a protection product, like ProtectMyID to do the things you can't do for yourself, such as scanning the Internet daily for your information and alerting you to more than 50 indicators of fraud that may be a sign your identity has been compromised. A person's credit status can change on a dime, and spotting unauthorized activity quickly can be a key to halting identity theft."

TRADE LIKE A MILLIONAIRE

TIMOTHY SYKES

TIMOTHYSYKES.COM

Timothy Sykes is a millionaire stock trader and entrepreneur.

Keys to long-term financial success

I've made millions in the stock market, written the best-selling book, "An American Hedge Fund," and used the money to travel all over the world. Now my top student just passed $2 million in profits. And I'm only 33 years old. I know a thing or two about success. Here are my top three tips to help you succeed:

Tip No. 1: Study and work hard

Some people find success through sheer luck with little work or effort, but the odds of that happening are very slim.

To increase your odds of being successful, be prepared to study and work harder than you ever thought possible. You can't just go the normal route and expect to get ahead. Do what you love, even if it's weird. Some of the most successful people I know think way outside the box — but because of their determination and work ethic, they've made it.

Tip No. 2: Embrace failure and learn from it

No matter what your passion is, you will screw up somewhere along the way. Far too many people get discouraged and let one or two failures stop them or slow them down. In the past, I've lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in the stock market when I broke my trading rules; I was ridiculed by the press and my industry and became very depressed. But I pulled myself back up by refocusing and abiding by the rules that made me successful, and I used my mistakes to learn what not to do. By making mistakes, we become wiser and can use that education to become more successful.

For exclusive commentary, visit Metro.us/blogs.

Tip No. 3: Patience is key

No matter how good you are at something, don't expect immediate success and recognition. Perfect your craft, hone your skills and have patience.

You'll be able to handle the recognition much better and the feeling will be that much sweeter knowing you put in the time and effort to deserve it all.

Consumers rush to get free TV after Supreme Court ruling

U.S. households to get free TV with slick little micro antenna device engineered to pull in all over-the-air TV channels for free as law forces network giants to broadcast all TV signals regionally to all 50 states

Free TV: Crystal clear HDTV picture with no cable, no satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills

NATIONWIDE - Consumers just got handed a really good reason to get rid of cable and satellite bills.

Everyone fed up with high cable and satellite bills, huge channel bundles and poor customer service are now flocking to get a slick little micro antenna device that lets U.S. households watch broadcast TV legally without paying a cable or satellite company for it and no monthly bills.

So much attention is now being focused on this slick little device since the High Court handed down the big win for consumers.

The landmark decision highlights the public's ability to get all the top rated national TV network and regional shows broadcast over the air absolutely free.

The only thing consumers need to do to get the slick little micro antenna device is call the Free TV Order Hotline beginning at 8:30am this morning or simply return the Free TV Claim Form printed at the bottom of this page before the 3-day postmark deadline ends.

Everyone who does is getting the slick little $88 device at a real steal because it pulls in crystal-clear digital TV channels for free with no monthly bills.

The target audience for the slick little micro antenna device has been young urban professionals who don't want to watch more than 20 or 30 live TV channels. But now older folks are snapping up the slick little device because it's rapidly becoming popular for those on fixed incomes and anyone who just doesn't want to pay a cable or satellite bill anymore.

"When advanced technology enables consumers to just plug in a simple device to get free TV, consumers are the winners," said David Martin, Senior Analyst at CompTek, the company that makes the sleek little micro antenna device that works on virtually any TV.

"This special advertising feature is being so widely published because there's never a monthly bill to pay and all the channels you get are absolutely free," Martin said.

"That's why the slick little device is not like being tied to a cable or satellite company. The device is engineered to access solely over-the-air signals that include all the top rated national and all broadcast stations, like DISNEY (ABC), COMCAST (NBC), CBS, 21st Century FOX (FOX), PBS, CW and about 90% of the most watched TV shows like America's Got Talent, NCIS, The Big Bang Theory, 60 Minutes, The Bachelorette, Blue Bloods, Dateline, Person of Interest, American Idol, The Voice, Dancing With the Stars, CSI, Two and a Half Men, Sunday Night Football plus news, weather and sports all for free with no monthly bills," Martin said.

■ FREE TV WITH NO CABLE BILLS: Thanks to a slick little micro antenna device that plugs into the back of any TV, consumers are getting free crystal-clear digital channels without cable or satellite. Its like getting a new HDTV for free. That's why U.S. residents are flooding the Free TV Hotlines and rushing to the Post Office to return the Free TV Claim Form reprinted at the bottom of this page. Consumers in all 50 states who want to get Free TV with no monthly bills just need to call within 72 hours or beat the 3-day postmark deadline. Consumers should begin calling the free TV Hotlines at 1-866-637-3530 beginning at 8:30am or be sure the Free TV Claim Form is postmarked by midnight 3 days from today's publication date.

That means consumers who get the slick little device can channel surf through all the nations top favorite TV shows. The number of shows and channels consumers get depends on where they live. People living in large metropolitan areas can get up to 53 crystal-clear digital channels, while people in outlying areas will get less. That means even consumers in rural areas that pull in NBC, ABC, CBS, FOX and PBS broadcasts will still get hundreds of shows each year to watch for free.

"It's so simple all you do is just plug it into the back of your TV and place the razor thin micro device on a window or wall, then autoscan does all the rest. It works on virtually any model TV and you get a stunning HDTV quality picture," Martin said.

"It just doesn't make any sense to keep paying for TV when you can get all the top rated network channels and hundreds of shows absolutely free," he said.

But there is no time to waste, early reports show the free TV Hotlines are extremely busy.

So, if lines are busy keep trying, all calls will be answered.

WHO WINS IN SUPREME COURT'S LANDMARK DECISION

WINNERS:

CONSUMERS

Consumers who get a slick little micro antenna device like the razor thin Clear-Cast® brand will get free TV with no monthly bills. The courts ruling emboldens the ability for consumers to legally use the slick little device in their own home to get free TV. The simple device is engineered to pull in nothing but free TV channels in crystal-clear digital picture with no cable, satellite or internet connection. That's why this slick little micro antenna is a real steal at just $88 because it is such a smart alternative for everyone who is sick and tired of paying cable and satellite bills.

NETWORKS AND TV STATIONS

With the victory, all major networks and TV stations get to protect their copyrights, but they must continue to comply with Federal Law 47CFR SEC. 1.4000 which allows consumers who have a slick little micro antenna device to receive all the crystal-clear over-the-air broadcast channels for free. Shown here are a handful of the major networks that must broadcast over the air channels that consumers can receive for free with the slick little micro antenna devices that saves money by not picking up expensive cable only channels like ESPN so there's never a monthly bill for consumers to pay.

Network trademarks and programs are the property of their respective owners and are not affiliated with or endorsing the antenna devices. Consumers report the crystal-clear picture quality with the Clear-Cast brand micro antenna device is the best quality picture they've ever seen.

MOVIE STUDIOS

Hollywood cheered the high court's decision because consumers who have a slick little micro antenna device will receive all of the major network Hollywood movies broadcast over the air for free.

LOSERS:

AEREO

Aereo will likely suspend its business since the court's decision after it developed a way to bootleg major TV network's content. Aereo charged subscribers $8 to $12 a month to lease a dime size remote antenna located in the company's facility.

DEVICE MAKERS

The Computer & Communications Industry Association backed Aereo's position, having concerns that the ruling could be detrimental to other cloud services.

CORD CUTTERS

TV viewers in large cities such as New York, Dallas and Boston who relied on Aereo's service that provided more than two dozen local channels.

Tom Hardy is done with rom-coms

You won't be seeing Tom Hardy in another rom-com anytime soon, and you can blame Reese Witherspoon for that. "I probably won't do a romantic comedy again, do you know what I mean?" Hardy, who starred with Witherspoon and Chris Pine in "This Means War" in 2012, tells USA Today. "I love to do things I hadn't done before. I didn't understand how you could do something which is so fun and be so miserable doing it."

GOOP is no Martha Stewart

You just know you were dying for Martha Stewart's take on Gwyneth Paltrow's lifestyle guru work at GOOP.com. And Ms. Stewart does not disappoint. It's a good thing. Using a simple recipe of scolding and faint praise with a light draping of shade for good measure, Stewart tells Porter magazine about Paltrow, "She just needs to be quiet. She's a movie star. If she were confident in her acting, she wouldn't be trying to be Martha Stewart." Yowza. Between the "She just needs to be quiet" dominance and the talking about herself in the third person, it's like we're seeing a return of tough-as-nails prison inmate Martha Stewart! And we like it! Watch out, Gwyneth!

Thicke blurs lines even further

Yes, we've made that pun we just made in the headline a few times before, like how Robin Thicke blurred the lines of what being faithful in a marriage meant, but this time there's just no way around it. The singer, whose 2013 hit "Blurred Lines" sparked controversy for many reasons (date rapey lyrics, sexist video, rip-off of a Marvin Gaye song), has added a new controversy to further sully the song's rep. It turns out he didn't even help write it! In court deposition documents obtained by the Hollywood Reporter (for that aforementioned Marvin Gaye rip-off lawsuit) Thicke said, "I was high on Vicodin and alcohol when I showed up at the studio. ... I wanted to be more involved than I actually was by the time, nine months later, it became a huge hit and I wanted credit. So I started kind of convincing myself that I was a little more part of it than I was. … But the reality is, is that Pharrell had the beat and he wrote almost every single part of the song." So yeah, blurred lines of authorship due to blurred senses from booze and pills. PAT HEALY

When it suits him, Thicke claims he had a part in writing "Blurred Lines," but when it doesn't, he'll throw Pharrell under the bus.

Remembering Amy Winehouse, sort of

Maybe we, the human race, have lost our knack for quality, lifelike sculpture. Late singer Amy Winehouse has been immortalized in London with a kind of unfortunate statue of her. Like, to call it her "likeness" is unfair, but at least they got the exaggerated beehive right. At least her father, Mitch Winehouse, above, is pleased. "It is like stopping her in a beautiful moment in time," he says, according to the Associated Press. "We really hope Amy's fans love the statue." If you want to see this thing for yourself, it's been plopped down in the North London neighborhood of Camden.

NETFLIX TOON 'BOJACK HORSEMAN' MORE THAN AMAZING HORSE PUNS

STREAM THIS

MATT PRIGGE

Will Arnett voices a talking horse (opposite a slacker voiced by Aaron Paul) on "BoJack Horseman." / NETFLIX

BoJack Horseman

Netflix Instant

BoJack Horseman, the anti-hero of the Netflix show of the same name, might be a talking horse (voiced by Will Arnett), but he's also a common modern character: the oblivious, self-centered jerk whose hedonistic, sometimes tyrannical behavior one enjoys rather than hates. Living in an alternate universe where sentient, anthropomorphized animals walk among (and mate with) humans, BoJack is a washed-up TV star of the John Stamos order, having once starred on one of those cheesy '80s shows with a heartwarming theme song and cute kids. Cut to 20 years later and he's a drunken louse not above sleeping with the pill-popping hellion (Kristen Schaal) who once played his adopted, catch-phrase-slinging daughter.

"Horseman" doesn't start off as fresh, though it is funny, as anything would be that featured equine puns. (BoJack wielding a pastry: "It's a horse of a different cruller?") But it quickly finds its seriously loopy voice. Subsequent episodes dig into weirdness that includes rock operas, a celebrity roast of Gloria Steinem, an Ira Glass ring tone and an Eva Braun biopic directed by Zach Braff. And BoJack himself becomes strangely decent and likable, warming without turning overly sentimental. It's a whinny-er! (Sorry.)

Speaking French with Kevin Kline

Interview. The Oscar-winner finally gets to share a screen with Maggie Smith in "My Old Lady."

"My Old Lady" is not Kevin Kline's first French film (though it's mostly in English). In "Queen to Play," he spoke the language fluently. (And of course, he played a stereotypical French pseudo-stud in "French Kiss.") But in "My Old Lady," adapted by Israel Horovitz from his play, he's an American who mangles his limited knowledge of the language, playing a malcontent displeased that his late father's Parisian apartment is unexpectedly populated by an old tenant (Maggie Smith) and her daughter (Kristin Scott Thomas).

KEVIN KLINE RETURNS TO FRANCE FOR THE DRAMEDY "MY OLD LADY." GETTY IMAGES

Was your experience with French films or playing French how you got involved with this?
I was sent the play by a very nice, misguided French producer, because he thought I could speak French well enough that I could do it in French. I begged to differ. Years went by and I was in Paris. It was the weirdest thing. I was doing press on "Queen to Play," and I'm with friends at the Cafe de Flore, where Sartre invented existentialism. I go upstairs to the men's room and I see Israel and a couple other people. Israel said, "You know, we were just talking about you." They were talking about who should play the lead in the film and someone said, "Kevin Kline." And then I just appeared. Israel thought it was staged.

Your character hasn't remotely settled down, despite being in his 50s.
I'll say. I'd hate to be late 50s and be nowhere. He's still wrestling with demons he should have reconciled with 30 years before. Part of the story is that even though you could be in your 50s or 60s or 70s or 80s, contrary to what kids think of people that age, they don't have it all figured out. In the last 10 years, I've embraced more and more the sensation that I'll never understand everything. I accept that. I won't understand most things. I don't understand how we think.

Kevin Kline irritates Maggie Smith en francais in "My Old Lady." / COHEN MEDIA GROUP

Bonus question

'Just a gal'

Do you still get intimidated working with someone like Maggie Smith?
Maggie's just a gal. She gives great foot rubs. Look, I just did a movie ["Last Vegas"] with Robert De Niro, Michael Douglas and Morgan Freeman, none of whom I'd ever worked with. You realize, "Oh, they're actors, and we're all friends. I can't be in awe of them." I can't be in awe of Maggie Smith. In between takes, I'd ask her about doing "Othello" with Olivier, and I'd hear these great stories about [Sir John] Gielgud and [Sir Ralph] Richardson. But you realize she's pretty good, so I must be pretty good, too, because I'm in a scene with her. And she agreed to do this scene with me! So I must be doing pretty OK!

If you think Sons of Serendip should be the big winners of "America's Got Talent," get ready to vote. / PETER KRAMER, NBC

REALITY

'America's Got Talent'

It's the final performances by the remaining six groups! Meaning, it's your last chance to decide which of them you really think have talent. We checked in with Micah Christian of Sons of Serendip, a Boston music group, and asked him what he thinks it will take to win: "Because all of the other contestants are so talented and there are many musical acts, a lot of it will come down to song choice and making sure that we give the best performance we can. The rest will be up to America," he says You heard him, folks. Get ready to vote.

Dawn O'Porter's so-called life

Young Adult. British TV personality Dawn O'Porter has a lot in common with the characters in her new young adult novel, "Paper Airplanes."

Follow Dawn O'Porter on Twitter at @hotpatooties. / PROVIDED

British TV personality and journalist Dawn O'Porter might be 35 and expecting her first child, but she admits she often still acts like a teenager. "I did this program for TLC last year in the U.K. where I'd spy on teenagers with their parents," she says. "The parents would say they were going away for the weekend, and then we would spy on them. The whole time, I wanted to say, 'Just let them have a messy room and sleep in! That's what we do!' And I realized I was saying that as one of them."

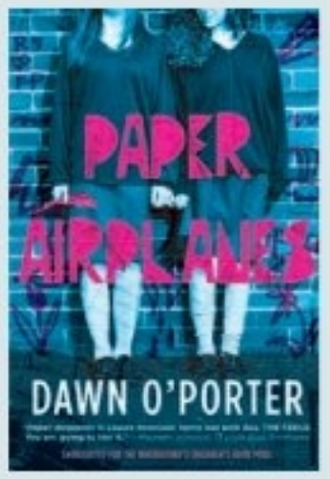
Out this month is O'Porter's new young adult novel, a story of two unlikely best friends that's so right on that it's generating a lot of pre-release buzz. The book is about two high schoolers, Flo and Renee. Flo is the timid one, not brave enough to stand up to her Regina George-esque frenemy. She also has quite serious problems at home. Renee is the classic boy-obsessed party girl. After her mother dies, she and her younger sister move in with their stoic grandparents. When Flo's father dies, the two form an unlikely bond.

"You go through so much when you're a teen, but you don't have the emotional capacity that you do when you're an adult," O'Porter says. Her book realistically addresses traumas that are a big deal to teens, of course, but also how the little things, such as boys and embarrassing moments, are a big deal, too.

Much of Renee's character was taken from O'Porter's own life. Like the character, she lost her mother when she was 7 and was sent to live with her grandparents. Her own teen diaries were a big resource for the book. "[My diary] was full of stories about boys. It was like, 'So-and-so was mean to me, I was mean to so-and-so, everyone hates me, I hate everyone, I love boys,'" she says. "I smoked my first joint. I got really drunk for the first time. It was all so basic, but it reminded me how overwhelming everything felt because you don't have experience under your belt to put it all in perspective."

O'Porter and her husband, actor Chris O'Dowd ("Bridesmaids," "Girls") recently announced they are expecting a child of their own by posting a video of O'Dowd doing the ice-bucket challenge and then nominating "baby O'Porter," followed by his wife dumping a glass of water on her pregnant belly. But even with babies on the brain, O'Porter says the book hasn't changed her views of parenthood just yet. "I'm so many years away from even dealing with a teenager that it's not even on my radar," she says. "Fundamentally, I'm still a teenager, but obviously that's about to change."

'90s look back



Her teen faves

- Her favorite band: "The Spice Girls! I was absolutely obsessed. I'm actually friends with Sporty Spice now. It's crazy."
- On her style: "It was the '90s. I don't want to be held accountable for what I looked like. It was so, so bad. It was too much makeup, terrible hair and Doc Marten boots."
- Her celebrity crush: "I was obsessed with Face from 'The A Team.' It was to the point where I didn't even see myself not marrying him. I just loved him."

"IF MY HUSBAND [ACTOR CHRIS O'DOWD] HAD KEPT A DIARY AS A TEEN, IT WOULD HAVE BEEN ALL ABOUT FOOTBALL," O'PORTER SAYS.

Top hipster cities

You heard it here first: These cities have some of the trendiest art, music and food scenes around the globe.

Native Texan Adam Groffman started his blog in 2009 as a means to keep his creative skills honed and communicate with friends and family while he traveled abroad. But TravelsofAdam.com suddenly took off when he published a post titled "Hipster Guide to Berlin" — the city that he's called home for two years. Ever since, hipster travel has been his specialty. We asked Groffman to give us his picks for the world's Top 5 hipster cities (not counting Brooklyn).

Berlin

It's undoubtedly Europe's coolest city. With 24-hour nightlife, a growing culinary scene and affordable living, Berlin has attracted people from all over the world. DJs want to play Berlin's clubs and artists want their work shown in the hundreds of galleries. Berlin is beloved for its independent spirit and creative culture.

To do: Eat at Street Food Thursdays in Markthalle Neun; swim in a pool inside a river at Badeschiff (Arena Club)

East London

Shoreditch and Hackney have turned from working-class neighborhoods to gentrified versions of their former selves. Speakeasies, food trucks and fashion shops that sell goods not just for you, but for your pets, are on every street. And with enough vintage markets to clothe a nation, the fashion in Shoreditch is a big draw.

To do: Eat on the Eating London food tour in Shoreditch; shop the Brick Lane Sunday Market; imbibe at the bars in Breakfast Club (Mayor of Scaredy Cat Town)

ALL PHOTOS BY ADAM GROFFMAN

Somerville

Forget Boston: Somerville is where the hipsters live and hang out. It has the area's best coffee and some of its best restaurants. With quirky street festivals, Somerville always has something exciting happening. For a fun time, just head to Davis Square and take in the ridiculousness of the locals.

To do: Have coffee at True Grounds; brunch at Highland Cafe; gawk at the Fluff Festival (every last Saturday of September)

Toronto

Toronto's Queen Street West neighborhood is far from tame. It's packed with both trendy bars and dive bars, with cupcake bakeries and cute cafes in between.

To do: Drink at 416 Snack Bar; eat in Chinatown (along Spadina Avenue); spot celebs at the Toronto International Film Festival

PLUS

Keep it weird

Austin

Austin is the new Portland. It attracts free spirits, hippies and more than a few aspiring musicians. Sometimes it feels like there are more food trucks than people. There's a reason they want to "Keep Austin Weird." But the coolest part of Austin is probably the food scene; you can get everything from trendy foods at a food truck to Texas-themed sushi.

To do: Drink Mexican Margaritas at Trudy's; swim at Barton Creek; enjoy the nightlife and live music clubs on Sixth Street

1 OgoDisk Mezo

$35.95
This is an awesome two-person game. Each kid takes a disk and bounces a ball back and forth to each other on it. Young kids can play sitting close together. For older kids, move them apart — more space means more of a challenge! It works with basically any ball — a rubber ball, tennis ball, even a Koosh ball!

The best toys exercise kids' bodies and minds. / ALL IMAGES PROVIDED

Best fall toys

Just because summer's over doesn't mean outside playtime has to stop. When it's 75 degrees out and sunny, you don't need another reason to take your kids to the park. We teamed up with KaBOOM!, a nonprofit that brings active play to children across the U.S., to round up the four best toys for fall. All the toys are from KaBOOM's Go Out and Play Collection, which helps families play together in ways that exercise both their minds and bodies. All toys are available for purchase at Kaboom.org/store. EMILY LAURENCE

2 Night Zone Football

$15.95
A game of touch football doesn't have to stop when the sun sets. The LED strip lights up the ball so you can keep track of it even in the dark. Since the football is made of foam, it's also not as hard as a traditional football.

3 Spooner Board Pro

$54.95
Have a kid who's into skateboarding? He or she will love this toy, which lets them practice surfing or snowboarding moves on any surface. They can do all the fancy spins and moves they would on the water, snow or asphalt without the risk of road rash or a wipeout. It's also a workout! But they'll be too busy having fun to notice.

4 Go Out and Play! Backpack

$29.95 to $59.95
If you don't want to tote a ton of stuff to the park but you still want to keep your kids entertained when you're there, this backpack is all you need. Inside the pack is a book with more than 70 outdoor games to play, sidewalk chalk, jump ropes, a flying disc and a playground ball. No matter what your kids want to do, this backpack will have you covered.

Discourse on male victims distracts from Ray Rice issue

Re: 'Men can be victims, too' (Metro, Sept. 15)
Letter writer Byron Watson has a valid point in saying that men can be victims of domestic violence on the same scale as women, and it is true that this type of crime is often played off by society as "nonserious." However, discussing the abuse of men during this case in which Janae Rice was the victim of a horrific attack does nothing but distract from the terrible nature of the crime and remove much-needed empathy for her. The obvious fact of the matter is that Ray Rice is not a victim of domestic violence, but an abuser who deserves the harsh media scrutiny he received for harming his then-fiancee in such a way. Implying that men would be mocked for the reverse scenario is conceivable, but irrelevant in this context. B. MASON, VIA EMAIL

Surely battered women everywhere will rest easier knowing that men can be victims, too. This assertion, true as it is, doesn't add anything to the discussion about what happens to women with odious frequency. Would a woman abuser's speculative immunity change the fact that Rice's alleged actions are absolutely prosecutable? SCOTT PERRY, VIA EMAIL

4 Reasons for Phillies fans to be optimistic

MLB. The Phillies have shown some glimpses of a bright future despite their losing season.

The Phillies are in last place. They have one of the highest payrolls in Major League baseball, a general manager who is content to sit and wait and see what happens and the team's nucleus in its mid- to late-30s.

But it could be worse.

There are glimmers of hope on this team that make it seem possible (but maybe not probable) that the Phillies could be competitive in 2015, and perhaps have one more shot at a playoff run before the core that brought home a World Series title in 2008 rides into the sunset.

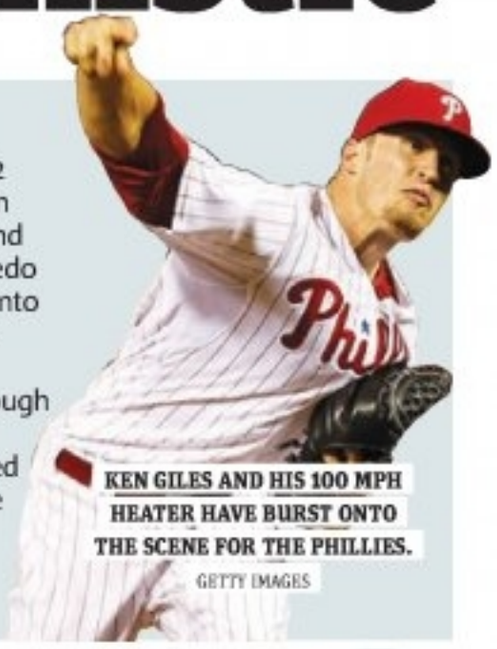
EVAN MACY
@evan_macy
evan.macy@metro.us

The bullpen

The bullpen is fantastic, reliable and incredibly young. Ken Giles has appeared in 40 games for the Phillies and has a minuscule 1.08 ERA. He has used his 100 mph fastball effectively as Jonathan Papelbon's setup man and it's a safe bet that he is the closer of the future.

The Phillies also have reliable arms, both lefty and righty, from Jake Diekman (94 k's in 66.2 inning's pitched), Justin De Fratus (2.52 ERA) and it appears Miguel Alfredo Gonzalez is rounding into MLB form, perhaps in time for 2015.

From August 5 through last Wednesday, the Phillies' bullpen sported a 1.99 ERA. And before Sunday's blown save, Jonathan Papelbon's ERA was at 1.56.



KEN GILES AND HIS 100 MPH HEATER HAVE BURST ONTO THE SCENE FOR THE PHILLIES. GETTY IMAGES

Maikel Franco

The 22-year-old third baseman got a lot of fanfare in spring training but was relegated to Triple-A for most of 2014. He tore through minor league pitching and looks to be comfortable with MLB pitching as well. He has five RBIs in nine games with the Phillies, and has shown comfort at the hot corner. Plus, he started Monday night at first base, showing he can play multiple positions. He will be a candidate for Rookie of the Year in 2015.

Maikel Franco has given the Phillies some clutch RBIs since his early September call-up. / GETTY IMAGES

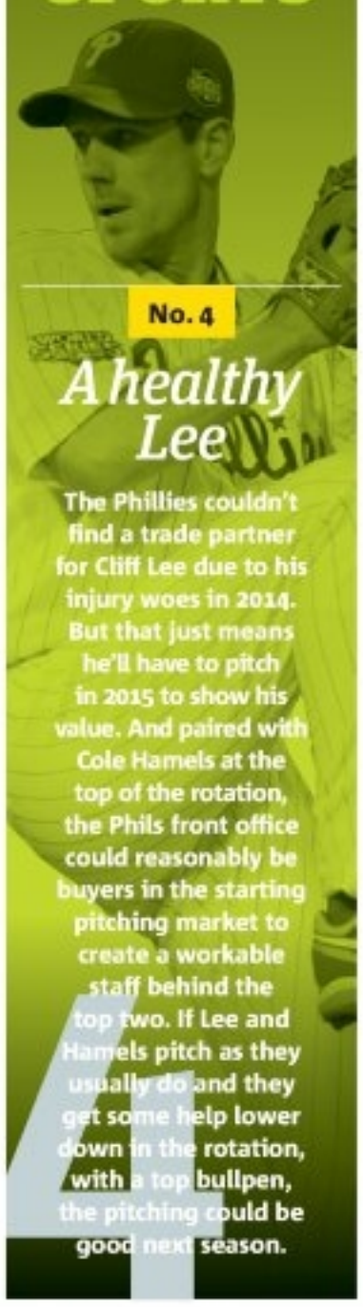
Ben Revere

It took a while for Phillies fans to be sold on Ben Revere. They tried to turn him into something he is not. Revere, despite his two home runs this season, is not a power hitter. Nor does he have a great arm out in center field.

But he has prolific speed on the bases and in the outfield, and he is a fantastic singles hitter.

Whether or not he wins the batting title in 2014, he will be the leadoff man in 2015 and could be a cornerstone for the Phillies for years to come.

3 SPORTS



No. 4

A healthy Lee

The Phillies couldn't find a trade partner for Cliff Lee due to his injury woes in 2014. But that just means he'll have to pitch in 2015 to show his value. And paired with Cole Hamels at the top of the rotation, the Phils front office could reasonably be buyers in the starting pitching market to create a workable staff behind the top two. If Lee and Hamels pitch as they usually do and they get some help lower down in the rotation, with a top bullpen, the pitching could be good next season.

NFL. Eagles likely to face Cousins Week 3 with Griffin III out

Visit Metro.us to read about the Eagles' Week 2 match vs. Indy.

It depends how you look at it, but the Eagles could have gotten a big break with Robert Griffin III likely to miss next week's matchup between Washington and Philadelphia.

He is expected to miss between four and five weeks with a dislocated ankle, an injury that many Washington fans feared could be much worse.

Jay Gruden said RG3 will wear a cast for a few weeks as he heals. If nothing changes, Colt McCoy will be Kirk Cousin's back up.

"Our game plan is our game plan, and nothing will change, really," Gruden said.

Cousins stood in admirably for Washington in a 41-10 blowout win.

Cousins looked like a seasoned pro, completing his first 12 passes and going 22-for-33 for 250 yards and two touchdowns.

DeSean Jackson also went down for Washington early in the game. The former Eagles wideout sprained an AC joint in his shoulder and said he hopes to play against Philly.

Eagles fans can bet on Jackson doing everything he can to be healthy enough to play Sunday. The Birds cut him last spring with very little explanation, leading him to sign a free agent deal with NFC East rival Washington. METRO

NHL. The Flyers' top pick, defenseman Travis Sanheim, has been making friends at rookie camp.

Maybe he's a way away from making his NHL debut with the Flyers. But 17th overall draft pick Travis Sanheim has done a good job of making a first impression during Flyers rookie camp — to fellow rookies and coaches alike.

"I go over to his room [during rookie camp] and play NHL 15 with him," last year's first rounder Samuel Morin told NJ.com. "I beat him. I'm pretty good at it. On the ice, he's a good player. I saw him for Team Canada [Development Camp in August] and he surprised me. He's very good jumping on the rush."

Though he is shy (as can be expected of a player making their NHL rookie camp debut), the 18-year-old prospect puts his head down and plays as hard as he can. And Union College star Shayne Gostisbehere has noticed too.

"I haven't spent a lot of time with Travis, but he seem likes a nice kid," Gostisbehere said. "He's really quiet, but he's got a boatload of skill. He can move the puck really well. He stickhandles. His head is always up. He's a good mover."

He may have some beef to squash with a current Flyer, however, when he makes their roster. Back in 2012, when the Penguins and Flyers were facing off in a playoff series, Sanheim, a Pens fan, had some harsh words for Brayden Shenn.

"Loves seeing Schenn getting dumbied! #duster #notalent," Sanheim tweeted on April 13 of that year.

Smartly, Sanheim, who was just 16 at the time, deleted the tweets.

Bad move

MLB likely to review Papelbon's gesture

The intent of the crotch grab is still unknown.

Jonathan Papelbon was frustrated, after giving up four runs to hand the Marlins a 5-4 lead in a disappointing loss Sunday. But he probably shouldn't have gestured to the crowd or umpire Joe West the way he did.

"I think it's pretty stupid, to be honest with you," Papelbon said. "The fans have a right to boo and do whatever, but for an umpire to get caught up in that and look for extra things that are going on? Just umpire the game. By no means was I directing anything at any fans. I have a 4-year-old and 5-year-old son and a daughter. I am not out here doing inappropriate things."

Prior to the Sunday implosion, Papelbon successfully saved 14 straight games and had an ERA well below 2. METRO

Quoted

"I was catching too much of the plate today. I wasn't as sharp as I've been for much of the year." Papelbon
